Unveil Famous Inness Painting At St. John's

"The Only Hope" Described by the Artist at Services at St. John's Church When Painting Which Has Attracted Wide Attention is Shown.

St. John's Church on Wall street was packed to the doors on Sunday evening with men, women and children gathered there to catch the vision of the great painting, "The Only Hope," which was unveiled and described by the artist, George Innes, Jr., N. A., which was hung in the chancel of the church.

In the absence from town of the organist of the church, Mrs. William S. Eltinge, organist of the Fair St. Reformed Church, opened the service by playing as the organ prelude, "Evening Song," by Johnston, after which Kramer's "The Great Awakening" was sung by Miss Los Kamp and a group of young ladies, members of the Schubert Club of the Y. W. C. A. The rector, the Rev. E. M. H. Knapp, acted as master of ceremonies. "There is no Death" was sung by Miss Los Kamp and then Dvorak's "Goin' Home," by the members of the Schubert Club.

The Rev. Mr. Knapp thanked all of the musicians for the service they had given in creating the right atmosphere musically and reminded those present that the painting would be on exhibition Monday from 2 to 5 o'clock and from 7 to 9 o'clock and at the same hours on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Richards of Tarpon Springs, Florida, the winter home of Mr. Inness, will be present when the painting is shown and will give the description of the picture.

Mr. Knapp expressed a profound sense of gratitude that this painting, which is to be shown in the churches, colleges and universities of the country, was to be shown in St. John's Church, with the added and rare privilege of having the artist himself present to tell the story of the painting. As Mr. Innes stepped into the pulpit, the lights in the church were dimmed, the veil was drawn, and there appeared to view a canvas both mysterious and spiritually illuminating.

Mr. Inness said it was his hope in the picture he had painted to create the emotion of peace, not connected in any way with the League of Nations or the World Court but rather to stimulate the will for peace on the part of all who should see it.

The Artist's Description.

I dreamed; and as I dreamed the interpreter came, and by the hand he led me to a mighty city, that was good to look upon. He said, Behold this great and beautiful City—it has surpassed all that has gone before. It has attained a culture never before known. In wealth, in science, literature and art, it stands alone throughout the world. We will enter this huge building, its legislative hall wherein are made the laws which govern this wondrous city.

Ah, you seem alarmed! You are aghast at the unrest, the confusion you find here!

No love, you say, all is selfishness and hate? Yes, the vision of love seems to be swallowed up in the desire for wealth, for power; politics for selfish ends; graft, deceit and bribery.

Take you out of here? You cannot stand it? You must have peace? Ah, my son, where can you find peace? All the civilized world is in a state of confusion and unrest.

If we walk through this beautiful city, you will find the same conditions. In business, in society, yes, the same thing, graft, hatred, selfishness.

To the church, say you? for rest, for peace? In this great edifice, called Christ's Church, we will sit awhile. It is very beautiful. Its lofty dome throws soft and mellow lights below. Its massive pillars speak of strenght and power. Enormous wealth was expended in its building. Its great organ peals out an anthem that proclaims its power. It must dominate all other temples—Its dogmas must be upheld, else you shall not enjoy its beauty and its wealth. Hate, you say, no love? Well, you are right; the greatest love is of itself confined within its walls. Peace? Let us listen now. In yonder pulpit stands a Fundamentalist, and here a Liberal. All is confusion, unrest. Hate seems to echo from wall to wall. "Believe as I do or be damned!" Didst hear a strain of "Peace on earth, good will to men?" Perhaps, but it is swallowed up by fanatical accusations that would smack of ancient times, when heretics were chained to burning stakes whose flames shot up to Heaven with tongues of fire that proclaimed, "Thus will I bring peace on earth, good will toward men."

But come, let us forth and seek that peace elsewhere.

The outcome of it all, you ask? Why, war, destruction, anarchy, pestilence and death. History will repeat itself and Rome and Greece will be enacted once again! The remedy—?

There is but one.

Ere we speak of this, here is the tabernacle. 'Tis but a lowly tent; see how its sagging canvas seems bending under the weight of heaven and, in suppliance, bows to appease the wrath of God.

The Evangelist, ranting, howling, there within, would govern you by fear. Fear, that the wrath of God will consume you in His hate. Therefore, he says, pray that you may even have in your heart the fear of the wrath of your Heavenly Father, else He may

Pinchot Not Upset At Coal Situation

Pennsylvania Not Making Extensive Preparations to Meet Strike Situation—Governor Continues "Hands Off" Policy.

By Telegraph to the Freeman.

Waynesburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania indicated on his arrival here today to inspect state militia, that he has not deviated from his original hands off policy concerning the anthracite coal strike which goes into effect at midnight tonight.

While he refused to make a statement, Governor Pinchot let it be known that the state was making no extensive preparations to meet the situation arising from the strike.

As the great majority of all anthracite coal produced in this country comes from three eastern Pennsylvania counties and in view of the governor's intervention as arbitrator in the 1923 hard coal strike, Pinchot was swamped with queries as to his attitude on the present crisis. To all he replied that he had no official statement to make.

All Ready For Maverick Festival

Great Annual Affair at the Maverick to be held Thursday—300 People in Stage Performance.

Plans for the annual Maverick Festival, one of the most spectacular outdoor affairs held anywhere in the East, have been completed and the preparations are now well under way for the big event.

The Festival will be held on Thursday, September 3, on the Maverick grounds off the Woodstock road. It it should rain the festival will be held the next fair day. The grounds have been already cleared and arrangements made for the parking of a great number of automobiles. The open air theater is being "prettied" for the staging of the greatest spectacle ever undertaken at the Maverick and for the seating of an unusual large audience.

The building of the stage setting really means the building of a city, the ancient city of Carthage, where will be seen such characters as Hamilcar, Salammbo, Hannibal, Hanno, all portrayed by some of the foremost artists of the colonies that have made Woodstock famous. The buildings erected to form the city and to provide the setting are beautiful indeed and constitute a real work of artistic construction. This entire work has been prosecuted for several weeks under the supervision of Walter Steinheiber. Featured performance will be the Barbarian Army, The Theft of the Sacred Veil, The Torture of Matho, The Wedding Feast, etc.

There will be many novelties introduced, among them some special dancing by Marian Kaslov, of the Winter Garden, an artist who always scores heavily before a Maverick audience and who has been seen on several occasions at society functions at the State Armory in this city. There will be other specialties. And the magnitude of the production may be gauged from the statement that the cast will comprise 300 people.

There will be the usual parade of the costumed revelers in the afternoon, the reunions, the music of bands, and there will be the usual booths and bunk and fakers and gypsies and snakecharmers and fortune tellers, etc.

The camp fire picnic will be featured at six o'clock and at eight, the show will be started, concluding in time for the Costume Ball, which commences at 11 o'clock.

All indications point to the festival this year being the largest and gayest that has ever been held at the Maverick.

Girl Jumped, Fight Started

Assailants Thought Italians Had Thrown Her From Ford Truck—Police Answered Hurry Call.

Shortly after midnight Sunday police headquarters received a telephone call that two cars had collided at the Wilbur bridge and a fight was in progress between the occupants. Officers Fatum, Schick and Murphy were rushed to the scene.

They learned that Dominick Currie of Highland in a Ford truck was returning from a dance at Baldwin's Hall at Rifton accompanied by a young girl and when near the bridge the girl had jumped out of the truck.

Following the truck was a Studebaker car with four men who when they saw the girl leap out of the car thought she had been thrown out by the Italian and called upon Currie to halt his truck. Currie did so and the four men in the Studebaker pitched into the Italian occupants of the Ford and after a brief fight put them to rout.

The girl informed the men in the Studebaker that she had left the truck of her own accord. She was escorted safely to her home nearby by one of the men in the Studebaker, all four of whom had also attended the dance.

There was no auto collision and the police made no arrests after hearing the girl's story.

Coolidge Will Keep Hands Off

Believes Present Predicament of Anthracite Operators and Miners Results From Selfish Reasons Which He Will Not Further in View of Large Supply of Coal on Hand.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge regarded today with cool unconcern preparation of the anthracite miners to lay down their picks at midnight.

With assurances that a four months' reserve of hard coal would prevent the public from suffering in any way, the president feels no anxiety about the strike.

The administration will stand by; there will be no interference.

Mr. Coolidge feels that the anthracite impasse was developed by selfish reasons on both sides. He has no intention of furthering the underlying motive through official action.

Also, it was pointed out in his behalf today, that congress failed to furnish an avenue of escape from such a situation as prevailed today despite Mr. Coolidge's request in his initial message to congress.

The executive demanded at that time that he be given power to meet with any emergency in the coal industry. He pointed out that the American public was at the mercy of both operator and miner. He used the word "selfish." But he was not given the power sought.

It is probable the president's recommendations in this connection will be renewed in December. It is also quite possible that he will go so far as to urge some form of federal control of the coal mines.

Meanwhile Mr. Coolidge feels there is no chance for public suffering as a result of the impending strike. There can be no shortage within four months. By that time the new congress will be in session. It has the power to act. And the president believes that it and not the executive branch, is the one which must and can act.

John Hays Hammond, chairman of the United States Coal Commission in 1923, called at White Court today. Mr. Hammond has stated that the country has a four months' supply of anthracite on hand and that a long strike need not be expected.

Giant 'Planes Off for Hawaii

Expect to Make Flight of More Than 2,000 Miles in 26 Hours—Sister 'Plane May Make Trip Alone in a Few Days.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 31.—Two huge navy planes will this afternoon attempt the conquest of the Pacific from the air.

At 2 p. m., unless unusual weather conditions develop, two giant seaplanes will take off from San Pablo Bay, San Francisco, on a non-stop flight to the Hawaiian Islands. They hope to traverse the more than 2,000 mile gap in approximately 26 hours.

The planes that will make the hop are the PN-9 No. 1 and 2. The great PB-1, latest acquisition of the navy's heavier than air fleet, could not be conditioned in time to start with her sister planes today and at a later date, possibly within a day or so, will attempt the long flight alone.

Decision not to delay the flight of the PN-9 planes until the PB-1 can be put in condition was reached early today at a conference of flight officers with Captain Stanford Moses, flight project commander. It will have the effect virtually of making the daring attempt a two-flight project.

Promptly at 2 o'clock, unless water surface conditions should necessitate an earlier start, the two big PN-9 planes will glide from the waters of San Pablo, head out through the Golden Gate and steer a Mercatorial course direct to Kahului, Maui and then to Honolulu. The objective is Kahului but the planes will not stop until Honolulu is reached.

"The two PN-9 planes are ready," Captain Moses said today.

"Weather condwitions are favorable and the starting of the two planes that will go today will not detract from the sporting element of the flight as each plane will be timed and the plane making the best time declared winner."

In order to traverse the vast stretch of water between California and the Hawaiian Islands, the planes must have the assistance of favorable trade winds.

The PN-9's lay at their anchorages in San Pablo today quietly waiting the orders to start.

Smith Did Not Change Root

Veteran Republican Statesman Unconvinced That He is in Error in Opposing $100,000,000 Bond Issue.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 31.—Elihu Root is still strongly opposed to the $100,000,000 bond issue for permanent public improvements, despite his visit to the Executive Mansion last week, according to reports going the rounds at the Capitol today.

The bond proposal is one of Governor Smith's pet projects. Some months ago after the proposal was attacked by former Governor Nathan L. Miller and Representative Ogden L. Mills, Mr. Root also came out against it.

While Mr. Root came here from his home at Clinton, N. Y., last week to select a site in the Capitol for a marble bust of the late President Chester A. Arthur, it was generally understood at the Capitol that the governor intended to try to convince the veteran Republican statesman that he should support the $100,000,000 bond issue.

As soon as the Democratic mayoralty primary fight is finished in New York city, the governor is planning to tour the state in the interest of his three proposals—the $100,000,000 bond issue, the $300,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of railroad grade crossings and the constitutional amendment to reduce the elective state officials from seven to four and reorganize the state government.

It was understood that the governor planned to carry his campaign for these proposals to every large city in the state.

Should the $100,000,000 proposal be adopted, the legislature would be authorized to approprite $10,000,000 for ten successive years for public improvements. The governor has taken the position that improvements which are to last over a period of fifty years should be paid for by bond issue. He long has maintained that taxpayers of today should not be compelled to foot the entire bill for improvements which will be enjoyed by generations to come.

Under the $300,000,000 proposal the railroads would pay 50 per cent of the elimination cost, the state 25 per cent and the locality the remaining 25 per cent. Some of the Republican leaders in the legislature, in opposing this project, claim it would place too heavy a financial burden on some of the small communities where there are several crossings.

PREMIER MAY RESIGN OVER IRISH BOUNDARY DISPUTE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Belfast, Aug. 31.—It became known today in face of repeated reports that the Irish boundary commission intended to give large sections of Ulster territory to the Free State that in such a contingency Sir James Craig would resign the premiership in order to lead the fight to retain the northern government's present territory.

This must be taken in the first place as Sir James Craig's reply to the public appeal made by his brother, Captain C. Craig, that one more effort be made to settle the boundary dispute by direct negotiation between the northern and Free State governments, independently of the boundary commission.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

The reptile coiled itself through the front wheels and disapeared into the underbrush at the side of the road.

Suspend Work At Railroad Shops

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 31.—Suspension of work for one week, beginning tomorrow, in the large Boston and Albany railroad shops in West Springfield was announced today by railroad officials here.

The officials said they were not authorized to give the reason for the shut down, but employes of the repair shops said it was common talk that slack work is anticipated during the coal strike when trains carrying hard coal into New England will stop moving over the road, thus curtailing the volume of car repair work.

Five Dead From Exploding Lamp

By Telegraph to the Freeman.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Augustino Scenna hovered between life and death at Massachusetts General Hospital today and her five children, ranging in ages from ten years to three months, lay dead in a morgue as the result of a fire in their Everett home last night.

A kerosene lamp exploded in the Scenna home and five other families were made homeless by the fire which followed.

Mrs. Scenna leaped from a second story window after seeing her little ones perish. A policeman, who dashed into the house, brought the baby of the family to the street in a baby carriage but the infant was dead.

The father, unaware of the tragedy, arrived home to find his children dead and his wife dying.

Stop Work at Midnight.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 31.—Although many were shorthanded, collieries in the anthracite field continued to operate today, the last before the expiration of the agreement which calls for the cessation of work at midnight tonight.

Production held up as the miners had blasted sufficient coal Saturday to keep laborers employed today. Since they will be paid for the coal that reaches the surface before 4 o'clock this afternoon, no attempt was made to continue mining.

Company hands spent the day in arranging for the removal of tools and arranging for the general maintenance of the mines during the suspension. Mules will be removed from the workings in a majority of cases tonight.

R. Capelini, president of District No. One was back from Philadelphia to take personal charge of the suspension.

A number of locals of the mine workers' union held meetings yesterday at which it was decided to permit the leaders to handle the situation without any suggestions at the present time.

MARRIAGE MAY UNITE ITALY AND SPAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Aug. 31.—Italian society was agog today over a report that Prince Humbert, crown prince, is engaged to the Infanta Beatrice, eldest daughter of the Spanish sovereigns.

The report was published in the La Nazione of Florence but was unconfirmed by other sources and in some quarters it is seriously doubted, due to the youthfulness of the Infanta Beatrice.

Prince Humbert, who is the idol of Italy, is twenty-one years old and a captain in the Italian Grenadiers. He has been several times reported engaged to the Princess Marie of Belgium.

The Infanta Beatrice was born in 1909 and is a beautiful girl, of the same type of English beauty of her mother, the queen.

If the engagement has been made, it is not believed that the marriage will take place for at least two years.

An alliance between the royal families of Italy and Spain would be welcomed by the Italian people and would have the favor of the Fascist government, for Mussolini has long been endeavoring to solidify relations between Italy and Spain.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Miss Price was returning to her room in the Hotel America with "Babe" Lindley, also an actress, early this morning when her admirer accosted her.

The man stuck a revolver in the face of Miss Price and pulled the trigger six times. There were five clicks and then a bullet ripped past Miss Price's head. Miss Price screamed and then fainted. The assailant fled.

Miss Price told police she met the man in Rochester while appearing in a play a few weeks ago. He followed her to New York.

Worry Produces Many Accidents

Expert Declares Safety and Happiness are Synonymous—Man Who Kisses Wife Good Bye Every Morning Stands Less Chance of Being Hurt Than Husband Who Leaves Home With a Grouch.

Kiss your wife good bye every morning is the advice given in a National Safety Council bulletin, which states that the husband who leaves home in a cheerful frame of mind stands much less chance of being injured than the man who starts the day's work bearing a grouch as a result of a domestic scene. Safety and happiness go hand in hand, declares R. C. Haven, safety engineer of the Grand Rapids Railway Company, who avers that worry is one of the chief causes of accidents. While he admits that kissing may not be sanitary he points out that a kiss given at the right time does more to patch up hurt feelings than anything else on the market. Mr Haven's comments on the part that domestic difficulties play in accidents are contained in the September issue of "The National Safety News," which is published by the council.

"Many people think of safety in terms of accident prevention only," states Mr. Haven, who continues: "True, safety does mean accident prevention. But it means more. It means all those things which promote health and prosperity, comradeship and brotherly love. Safety may manifest itself through our determination to have good health, a clean mind, a desire to help the other fellow, the proper co-operative attitude between our fellow workmen and our employers, a savings account, the cultivation of a genial disposition and ideal relations at home. All of these safety factors have a very direct bearing upon accident prevention work The prevention of accidents is one of the greatest factors today in the great game of living a happy life

"The man who leaves home in the morning with an untroubled mind is free from worry which produces so many accidents He can give all of his time and thought to the questions of the day. He is thinking mostly about his trip to work, his daily routine and his return home and while his mind is on these subjects he is conscious of the perils attendant on these hazards. He does not step into dangers which the chap who left home in ill humor faces. Starting the day right is half the battle If you are pleasant until 10 a m , the rest of the day probably will take care of itself.

"If you want to leave your wife in less danger from home accidents be sure that everything is in harmony when you depart More accidents happen in residences than on the streets, in public places or in shops, factories, etc If you go out in the morning with the bad taste of a quarrel fresh in the mouth of your wife that spoils her day. Brooding over the scene she is more liable to suffer an accident than if her mind were free from worry.

"Harmonious relations at home are the least expensive insurance for happiness Remember that a smile goes a long ways Smiles prevent accidents The smile of a babe can make the most gloomy grouch light up like a Fourth of July sky rocket or a Christmas tree

"In almost every home there will be disagreement between man and wife But one or the other should be big enough to assume the blame Most all domestic squabbles are caused by some insignificant remark or act Married couples should patch up their quarrels as soon as possible for petty fights are elastic.

"Immediate action is needed to prevent accidents following home troubles One seldom gets into a domestic squabble that does not end by someone being hurt—mentally or physically Sometimes these little rows end with one spouse committing suicide

"Avoid worry and you avoid accidents. Avoid quarrels and you avoid worry. Keep smiling and you keep happy And, safety and happiness go hand in hand through life, as should every married couple, each looking after the other."

Farm Bureau At New High Level

Total State Membership Reaches 28,477, Representing Farmers Who Have Paid a Membership Fee to Support the Work.

By Telegraph to the Freeman.

Ithaca, Aug 31.—A report from state farm bureau headquarters in this city states that more farmers are joining the farm bureau this year than last The latest figures available at the office of Jay Coryell, state leader of county agricultural agents, give the total state membership in the county farm bureaus as 28,477. This figure represents farmers who have paid a membership fee to support farm bureau work, hundreds of farmers who use the farm bureau are not paid members.

Twenty-nine counties of the state show an increased farm bureau membership over last year, representing every type of agriculture in the state.

"Better work was never done by the farm bureau than is now under way" said Mr Coryell, in commenting on the membership report. "This membership shows that the idea of organization is taking hold among New York farmers. When the farm bureau was first set up a great many men joined expecting something spectacular in the way of better returns from farming When the lean period began in 1920 these men dropped out The thinking farmers were steady in their support, however, and this nucleus has grown steadily as increasing numbers of farmers have come to realize the folly of abandoning their strongest weapon—organization

"The farm bureau will be needed as long as men make a living at farming but it cannot attain its full capacities for usefulness to farmers unless they are interested enough to support it with their time and money"

Three Vital Questions Every Advertiser Should Ask

Most advertisers today protect their appropriations by demanding complete information on circulation—with the three following questions answered in the affirmative the advertiser is absolutely sure of adequate returns.

1.—Does it reach the field desired?

2.—How much net paid circulation has the publication?

3.—Are the publishers' claims verified and corroborated by an Auditor's report from the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

We are proud to be in a position to qualify to every demand of the advertiser, as our records are regularly examined by the A. B. C.

Our last audit report is available and open for inspection and is full of facts that the advertiser should know in the placing of his appropriations.

Hammond Urges Federal Control

Wants President Coolidge to Exert Pressure on Congress to Adopt Recommendations of 1923 Coal Commission, Including Presidential Power of Operation in Emergency.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 31.—Rigid federal control of the coal industry, both anthracite and bituminous, through act of congress, was urged upon President Coolidge today by John Hays Hammond, former chairman of the United States coal commission.

Hammond proposed to the president that he exert all possible pressure to have congress adopt the recommendations of the 1923 coal commission at the coming session.

These recommendations include a provision that in the case of a national emergency rising out of a protracted strike, the president be empowered to seize and operate the mines.

Other Features Recommended.

Other features of the recommendations which Mr. Hammond urged be enacted into law were:

A continuation of fact finding, wide publicity and regulation of the industry through employment of federal powers over interstate commerce.

Creation of a coal division in the interstate commerce commission which would be charged with correcting existing abuses in the industry, and which would act as a national fuel distributing agency in case of an emergency.

Federal licensing for interstate commerce;

Inclusion in all wage agreements of a provision which would require the miners to give at least ninety days' notice of intention to strike and a further provision that should arbitration fail within sixty days after such notice had been given that the president be empowered to appoint a person or persons to investigate the controversy and make a special report and award back to the president for his information and guidance.

Compulsory reports to the government on finances, business, rates and general conditions from the coal operators.

Vacation Strike, Says Hammond.

Hammond expresesd the opinion that the strike that starts at midnight tonight will be of short duration. He termed it a "vacation strike."

He reiterated his confidence that a large reserve supply of anthracite on hand would preevnt any feul shortage or public panic and he said that the railroads were in excellent shape to distribute this surplus.

President Coolidge recommended to congress two years ago that the coal commission findings be adopted, but congress failed to act. It is expected that Mr. Coolidge will renew the recommendations with even more vigor in his message next December.

James L. Richards and Henry S. Lyons, two New England coal distributors, were summer White House callers today. They said that New England was well supplied with hard coal and that anthracite substitutes could be moved easily and quickly into this district.

DRIVERLESS FORD
GOES OVER PRECIPICE

A Ford sedan started out for itself last Friday afternoon near the Glenerie hill on the Saugerties-Kingston road while its owner was cranking it and had quite a disastrous as well as a lucky ending for it rolled down a 100 foot precipice and emerged with only a crushed roof.

A New York tourist and his wife were camping near Glenerie and were ready to leave the camping grounds when the man cranked the car and before he could stop it, the machine started forward and jumped off an almost perpendicular bank. The car plunged down, snapping off the trees, and landed in the bed of a shallow creek. The contents of the car were strewn about the ground and in the water and the owner expecting to see the machine smashed to pieces was surprised to find practically the only damage done was a smashed roof.

The fortunate part of the affair was that neither the man nor his wife were in the car when it started its sudden plunge. They would not give their names.

Busy Week Ahead For Colonials

The Colonials will start off a strenuous week Tuesday with the D. and H. Generals, a team which has faced the locals before this season in several tough matches. The locals will meet this strong club in a twilight contest at the Fair Grounds.

The Havana Cubans, a team considered one of the strongest clubs in independent baseball in this part of the country, will be at the Fair Grounds on Wednesday and Thursday. After these two games the locals will rest on Friday and on Saturday will go to White Plains to meet the West Harrison team for a second match. The New York Firemen, who were planning to come to Kingston on Sunday, notified Manager Brown this morning that they would have to cancel the game scheduled for this date. Instead Manager Brown will probably book the D and H. Generals for Sunday.

The Brooklyn Nationals have called off the game that was to be played at Poughkeepsie with the Colonials September 9, and instead will be at the Fair Grounds on that date. The Brooklyn management gave the locals the choice of September 9 or 10, as it is impossible for the Dodgers to play the Colonials two games.

Small Elsie Did Not Want Another Oyster!

Oysters, like olives, are an acquired taste, and a taste that some persons never acquire. There are many, says E. E. Whiting, writing cheerfully in the Boston Herald, who sympathise with the oft-quoted young woman who said: "I'm glad I don't like oysters, because if I liked 'em I'd eat 'em, and I hate 'em." There are many also who will feel akin in spirit with the little girl who was making her first appearance at a home dinner at which there were grownup guests.

The first course was oysters on the half-shell. Her mother observed approvingly the placidity and exemplary demeanor of her daughter, and thought to remove some of the solemnity and restraint of the occasion by letting the child into the joys of the dinner. So she said:

"Would Elsie like a nice oyster?"

Elsie looked doubtful, but dutifully opened her timid mouth, and mother popped an oyster into it. Elsie closed her lips, and the mother turned her attention to her guests and her oysters. She got to the last oyster on her plate and then remembered her child, whose silence and sustained good manners continued to make a most delightful impression. So she turned to the child and asked: "Would Elsie like another nice oyster?"

A look of anguish came into the face of the patient little girl. She gently and cautiously parted her lips just far enough to reply: "I don't 'ant 'is 'un!"

BUT ONE RADICAL CHANGE.

Except in one particular the radical changes in prohibition enforcement promised by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews do not meet expectations. The later announcement of particulars as to the new regime beginning September 1 indicates that there has been no extensive overhauling of the service and that the prohibition force has not been greatly changed, only six new names appearing on the slate of 24 district chiefs. And General Andrews's second announcement of more effective enforcement is noticeably less optimistic than the first. For example, he says: "The market is our most difficult problem. The market will pay any price and swallow any bootlegger's fairy tale about quality. But one by one intelligent citizens will realize the danger to government and society which they are creating by feeding fat a business which exists only through corrupting the very agents of government whose honesty is essential to the stability of society." The danger is not overstated but "one by one" conversion was ever a slow process.

The single radical change—the disregard of State lines—is radical indeed. The Volstead act empowered the Treasury Department to organize the country into such administrative districts as might be decided on, notwithstanding that under the 18th amendment the States as States have "concurrent power." At first it seemed to be regarded as imprudent to ignore this recognition of the position and power of the States as such, but General Andrews has gone ahead, abolishing the States as prohibition units and divided the country into 22 administrative districts instead of 48, although he was warned that the States would show their resentment "by refusing to cooperate in enforcement." Whether there will be consequences of this sort remains to be seen, but unquestionably the country has been startled by the deliberate obliteration of State lines in this connection. There are indications that the people of not a few States are now disposed to be more on their guard in future, gravely reflecting upon the consequences of surrendering police powers to the Federal government.

FORD ON FARMERS.

A year or two ago Henry Ford dismissed history as bunk, and now he abolishes the cow—or suggests her elimination as a back number. He says he doesn't "believe much in milk as a food anyhow," and besides "synthetic milk"—whatever that may be—would be "better and cheaper." For one thing, it would do away with all that vast waste of time and labor farmers give to milking, feeding and caring for cows. "That has all got to be changed," he says. But is not soil fertility largely dependent on farm animals? Not at all, answers Mr. Ford, who is strong for "commercial fertilizers." Mr. Ford not only dismisses the cow, but virtually eliminates the farmer himself.

Referring to the great majority of average agriculturists, he asks: "Why do we need farmers anyhow?" Farms will be much larger and run more systematically in the future, he says. "The little farmers will have to go. They are back numbers." What then is to become of this large class in America? Well, they can work in automobile factories and get garage jobs, for in this connection Mr. Ford notes that "industry is moving out into the country districts," that "too much centralization" in manufacturing is undesirable, and that "a good many farm people" are working in his out-of-town plants already.

So great a success in his line and so startling a thinker as Mr. Ford can always get a hearing, but if the standardized world he dreams of is ever brought about, there will not be any too much left of the America of the past or even of the present. When agriculture is in the hands of great corporations and practically everybody works for a boss American individualism and personal independence will be just about at their last gasp. Only a great captain of industry like Mr. Ford can find such a prospect alluring. It will be better for the country's health to keep both the cow and the farmer.

THE NEW ORATORY.

According to W. B. Yeats of the Irish Free State, "the day of oratory is past," and great public speaking is at an end, not only in Ireland but "everywhere in the world." If even Irish eloquence of the old sort has seen its last days, unquestionably there is a marked change. There is still some revival of old-time oratory in our West and South, but changed methods are noticeable also in this country as a whole.

But what, after all, is and has ever been the object of oratory? Simply to convince or persuade by words and manner of speaking. The impulse in this direction is as living and widespread as it ever was. There is now no lack of eagerness to convince or persuade, but the shrewd public speaker of these times has modified his method to meet the demand of a changed popular taste. Hurrying moderns have neither the time nor the patience to listen to long-winded, discursive, old-style oratory. They still appreciate real eloquence, but they want the facts briefly stated and the points quickly and tellingly made. Condensation, an art in itself, is imperative. There are still great speakers, but they are of a new kind, wisely adapting themselves to the needs of the times. Real oratory is not dead, but of necessity it finds expression in a different form.

ANOTHER HELPFUL DISCOVERY.

Physicians are watching with interest the experiments being conducted by Dr. W. J. MacDonald, a Canadian research physician. High blood pressure has become a constant source of anxiety to physicians now, because it not only tells the story of weakened heart, kidney, or blood vessel tissue, but is in itself a continuous source of danger. This physician has been working along the same lines as Dr. Banting, the discoverer of insulin, has in fact been working at the same laboratories, but not together. He has been able to isolate an active principle from the liver of a calf, that injected into the veins, will reduce the blood pressure from a dangerous point to one of safety. There were two principles extracted which he named A. B. Used separately they did not have much of an effect upon blood pressure, but combined they caused an "extraordinary" fall in blood pressure.

After administration of this preparation, the blood pressure remained low for about three days, when it began slowly to rise again. This of course would mean the necessity of injections from time to time, to keep the pressure within safe limits. However, when we remember that the principle has just been discovered, that it will likely need to be "refined" to a much greater extent than at present, it is not hard to believe that injections may later need only be given at long intervals.

This is what has occurred in many cases with insulin. The injections have been gradually reduced, and completely stopped in many cases, and the patient is keeping his health and weight with no traces of sugar in his urine whatever. His only "treatment" is his own careful dieting. When we remember that the liver is a digestive gland, supplying bile to break up fats, and having the power also to store up within itself sugar for the future needs of the system, it makes us realize that this "eating" business is at the bottom of many of the ailments that cause old age.

And yet careful, sane eating is the most important business we do.

Misplaced Sympathy

When Sir Henry Hawkins, the famous judge, was practicing at the bar, on one occasion having the prisoner's children present in the courtroom during his summing up, by his pathetic references to those weeping children he so worked on the sympathies of the jurors that they promptly set the prisoner free. A few days later a friend told him he had been walking in the neighborhood of the prisoner's home during the early days of the trial and had seen these same children playing at hanging a cat, at the same time singing at the top of their voices: "This is the way daddy will go."

TWO HALVES OF THE SAME APPLE.

Human engineering denies the statement of radicalism that the interests of employer lie in one direction and those of employes in another. The fact is that there are a great many questions in the world to which there are not two sides.

Thus, there is no room for argument on the statement that ice is cold or that fire is hot. Just so in final analysis there are not two sides to the question, when the statement is made that the interests of employer and employe are mutual.

Each is one half of the same apple and if either half gets rotten the other half gets rotten too.

Unscientific management results in unscientific service.

Scientific management results in scientific service clear through the institution. As above, so below. As the source, so the stream. There is one thing that God don't do and man can't, and that is to plant one kind of seed and raise another kind of grain.

The employe who is not interested in the success of the institution and is not trying to render good service to his employer and to the public has nobody to blame but himself if he finds that the employer is taking no interest in him.

Per Contra, the employer who takes no interest in the people on his payroll is sowing a crop of the seeds of indifference to one of his basic natural duties, and is expecting the logical absurdity and the natural impossibility if he expects to reap a crop of interest on the part of his employes in him and his institution.

Every employer and every employe in the world should get a copy of Emerson's Law of Compensation and then not just read it, but study it. Eventually each of us reaps as he sows.

Life is so constituted that the science of getting is, first of all, the science of giving.

DETROIT PRESS.

The first newspaper printed in Detroit was the Michigan Essayor Impartial Observer, which issued its initial number 116 years ago today, August 31, 1809. The oldest of present day Detroit papers is the Free Press, which was founded in 1831, and has been published continuously ever since. Western journalism began in 1787, with the publication of the Kentucky Gazette at Lexington, Ky. The first Ohio newspaper was commenced at Cincinnati in 1793. Indiana's first paper was founded at Vincennes in 1808, and the St. Louis Republic, Missouri's pioneer journal, was established in the same year. Illinois journalism began in 1814, when the Illinois Intelligencer was published at Kankakee. Wisconsin's first paper was started at Green Bay in 1833, and the same year marked the beginning of journalism in Kansas and Arkansas.

MME. BLAVATSKY.

The first Theosophical Society for the propagation of the "wisdom religion" was founded by Mme. Helen Blavatsky, a Russian woman, who died in London, England, thirty-four years ago today. After her "transmigration" the work was taken up by Mrs. Katherine Tingley in America, and Annie Besant in Europe and India, with the result that the cult has spread all over the world. Headquarters in America are at Point Loma, near San Diego, California, where the society conducts schools, publication offices and other activities. International headquarters are maintained at Adyar, Madras, India. It has territorial sections comprising the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Australia, and several European sections. "The universal brotherhood of humanity" is the basic prinicple of the cult.

"THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS"

The first edition of the "Pilgrim's Progress" was printed in 1678, just a decade before the death of the author, John Bunyan, who breathed his last in the home of a London grocer, 242 years ago today, August 31, 1688. The first edition was "Printed for Nath. Ponder, at The Peacock in The Poultry, 1678", and a second edition was necessary the same year. Ten editions were printed before Bunyan died, and the book enjoyed a huge popularity among the lowly and humble of England and Scotland, but was scorned by the educated classes. Bunyan was very proud of the fact that his work was greatly admired by New Englanders. For more than a century the book had no standing in literary circles. "All the numerous editions," says Macaulay, "were evidently meant for the cottage and the servants' hall, as the paper, the printing and the plates were of the meanest description." In his youth Bunyan was a tinker, and far from pious. It is recorded that a woman whose character was such as to make her an authority on profanity, declared he was, "the ungodliest fellow for swearing she had ever heard, and that he made her tremble to hear him."

Speedy Decision On Home Rule

Court of Appeals Expected to Lose No Time in Deciding Constitutionality of Home Rule Amendment—Papers Filed Before Argument at Judges' Request.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Albany, Aug. 31.—A quick decision is expected from the court of appeals on the validity of the Home Rule amendment.

The question will be argued before the highest tribunal in the state Tuesday.

Virtually every city in the state will be represented at the hearing by its corporation counsel. The New York State Conference of Mayors is taking an active interest in the legal battle The members of the conference are hoping the amendment will be declared constitutional.

Members of the Home Rule Commission, which framed the amendment before it was passed by the legislature and adopted by the voters, have expressed the opinion that the court will hold it valid.

Supreme Court Justice Burr in New York held the amendment invalid because a change in wording was made after it had been passed by the senate and while it was pending before the lower house of the legislature.

Members of the State Federation of Labor are vitally interested in the court's decision They are afraid that if the home rule amendment is declared unconstitutional an attack may be made upon the validity of the amendment which provided for workmen's compensation.

Papers in the appeal have been filed with the court by the lawyers who will argue for the validity of the amendment It was said that this was the first time in years that the court had asked that briefs be filed before hearing a case.

William A Walling, assistant corporation counsel of New York city, worked for a week during the summer in the legislative library digging up old records in an effort to prove to the court that the amendment was contstitutional, even if a slight change was made in its wording after it had been passed by one house in the legislature.

Louis A Marshall, noted constitutional lawyer, is expected to argue against the amendment. Bainbridge Colby will proably be one of the chief speakers for the amendment

A Princess and of Youthful Interpretation.

A change, too, has come over our ideas of sleeves They tend to follow the general outline of the skirt, and are frequently but not always full below the elbow At all events they do not terminate at the elbow. The present styles call for long sleves, and for collars which, if not actually high, at least do not expose the neck.

Coats which flare from the shoulder are newer than those which begin their circular career at the knee-line. It does not at all do to underestimate this tendency to wider hems, even in coats, and it certainly does not do to ignore the importance of the coat, which while often a unit of the ensemble shows a tendency to be judged by its own merit independently of how well it sets off the frock The ensemble idea continues to be strongly played up but hardly insisted on as regards coats

Holidays in Brazil Come Thick and Fast

The man who covets numerous holidays should move to Brazil. According to a work issued by a trust company of New York, "Bank and Public Holidays Throughout the World," Brazil enjoys eleven public holidays, and augments this allowance by many unofficial holidays which are generally observed. Starting well off the mark on January 1, with New Year's day there is an interval for work until the 6th, which is Epiphany. Follows a period of hard slogging until the 20th, when the state of Rio [illegible] feasts. Another state follows suit on the 25th, and still another on the 27th, which is the last holiday in January. Most months are like that in Brazil. In fact one or two months—such as April—are still more bountifully provided with holidays.

THE MILKMAN'S HORSE

Every morning in a great big enormous city many milkmen took the milk in bottles and put the bottles in wagons and went to all the city dwellers and left the milk which they had ordered by their doors.

They Found the Milk Outside.

When people got up they found the milk outside their doors or in their porches and took the milk in and had breakfast.

They never went to pasture and brought the cows in and milked them. Of course this would have been awkward in an apartment. They never had the least effort or trouble about getting their milk.

If they wanted less milk or more milk they wrote their milkman a little note and asked him to leave more the next day as they were having a party, or not to leave any as they were going out of town for the day.

Some of them hardly realized how easy it was for them. It had been easy so long that they hadn't bothered to think about it.

The milk came early, too. But the people didn't have to get up early in order to get their milk. The milkmen looked after all that.

In fact some of the people hardly seemed to remember that the milk was anything else but a city convenience. That is the way city people get to be now and again.

But if people sometimes became that way and even did not appreciate how good their milkman was to them and how well he looked after them, this is the story of the friendly horse one of these milkmen drove.

This milkman had a large family of wonderful children. It made him kind and sympathetic and very good-natured. Children often help grown-ups to be good-natured. They may not always succeed at once with those who aren't used to children, but they do a great deal in this way.

So this milkman was very wonderful the way he never made any mistakes in getting his orders just right, and when people asked for more milk, he left more, and when they did not want any for a day or so but then wanted to begin their order again he kept it all straightened out and never confused anything.

Perhaps it was because, you see, the fact that all the children were always going to him with this and that bit of news and this and that request and this and that jolly little story, and that he kept them all straight, that he was such a really remarkable milkman, too.

It's often a great help to have many children around!

In addition to which it is very nice, too! (That's the truth, children.)

But there was his horse, as friendly a horse as you could ever hope to see.

He was such a nice horse, a dark-brown horse with a black mane. He stood outside the doors and waited so patiently until his master should come out again.

Sometimes his master would be gone a long time as in some of the big apartment houses there were many families and the milkman had to see that almost all of them received their milk.

The horse would be waiting a long time.

He would stand still until he heard the familiar step of his master.

Then He Would Turn His Head.

Then he would turn his head toward his master and his affectionate eyes would look so pleased and he would open his mouth wide and show his teeth, his funny, big teeth, as he did so, and then he would give a long neighing greeting.

Every time when his master would be gone for a long time he would greet him again.

Every single time.

Now wasn't that a nice kind of a horse for the milkman to have?

The milkman thought so.

Almost "Head" Boy

"Pa," said little Jimmy, "I was very near getting to the head of the class today."

"How was that, Jimmy?"

"Why, a big word came all the way down to me, and if I could only have spelt it I should have gone right up."

ALTHOUGH PARLIAMENT ANTICIPATED BUT LITTLE OPPOSITION TO THE STAMP ACT IN THE COLONIES, IT WAS GREETED WITH GREAT INDIGNATION AND RESISTANCE. PATRICK HENRY STIRRED THE COLONIES BY AN ELOQUENT SPEECH BEFORE THE VIRGINIA HOUSE OF BURGESSES, IN WHICH HE DENIED ENGLAND'S RIGHT TO TAX THE COLONIES WITHOUT THEIR CONSENT. —

SERIOUS RIOTING MARKED THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE HATED STAMPS.—SECRET SOCIETIES CALLED "THE SONS OF LIBERTY" WERE FORMED EVERYWHERE TO OPPOSE THE STAMP ACT. IN BOSTON A MOB HANGED THE STAMP AGENT IN EFFIGY AND WRECKED THE HOUSE OF HUTCHINSON, THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR AND CHIEF JUSTICE.—

IN NEW YORK THE "SONS OF LIBERTY" MOBBED THE STAMP OFFICERS AND FORCED THEM TO RESIGN. THEY ALSO PLANNED A BOYCOTT ON GOODS IMPORTED FROM ENGLAND.— AT THIS TIME THE COLONISTS WHO OPPOSED ENGLAND CAME TO BE CALLED "WHIGS", THOSE WHO BELIEVED THE KING WAS RIGHT WERE KNOWN AS "TORIES."—

MORE COOL DRINKS

Cool drinks are always in season. When entertaining, a variety from which to choose is an advantage.

Tea Frappe.—Boil a cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water for five minutes. Add a pint of strong tea infusion, freshly made and cooled, then the rind and juice of three oranges, the juice of two lemons and a can of grated pineapple. Freeze, if desired, or pack in a mold in equal parts of ice and salt for three hours. Remove from the mold and garnish with slices of lemon and mint leaves dipped in powdered sugar.

Fruit Juice Frappe.—Take two cupfuls of fruit juice, one cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water and the juice of two lemons. Cook the sugar and water for five minutes, cool and add the fruit juices. Bury in equal parts of ice and salt for three hours. If a fine texture is desired use one part of salt to two of ice and let stand for five hours.

Orange and Grape Juice Frappe.—Add one cupful of sugar to two cupfuls of grape juice, one cupful of orange juice and one-fourth cupful of lemon juice. One cupful of cream may be added, making a richer drink. Fill the mold and pack as usual in ice and salt. Garnish with whipped cream when serving.

Chiffonade Tea Punch.—Make four cupfuls of strong tea, let it cool, then add to it the juice of six lemons and one pineapple cut in small pieces, one pound of cherries and one cupful of granulated sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add a quart of carbonated water, pour into a pitcher and serve with a sprig of mint on top of each glass. Serve with chipped ice and cookies.

For iced tea, use twice as much tea and prepare it at noon to be used at night, putting the tea into cold water. The flavor is quite different.

"With" Not "Will."

"God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again," was the little hymn that was sung at the party given in honor of the thirteenth birthday of Louis Port on Saturday, August 22, at his home 65 Van Buren street. In the account of the party published in The Freeman of the issue of Monday, August 24, the title of the hymn read, "God Be Will You 'Till We Meet Again."

How Bryan Kept Cool

William Jennings Bryan once told how he kept cool when making a speech.

"Do you know," he observed, "that when I am addressing an audience in a particularly warm hall, I have a small piece of ice about the size of a pullet's egg. I put it in the palm of my right hand and hold it tightly. Then I shift it to my left hand, holding it in either hand for about five minutes.

"Then I pass my cold hands over my forehead. I have always found this very effective."

Ruth To Plead Before Ruppert

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 31.—Failing in his efforts to see Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball today to plead his case in having the fine and suspension imposed on him by Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yanks, lifted Babe Ruth planned to leave for New York on the Twentieth Century Limited and put his case before Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club.

Judge Landis was reported to be at his summer home in Michigan and would not be in Chicago until Wednesday. Ruth, rather than wait until Wednesday decided to go to New York and present his case to Colonel Ruppert.

"Its all up to Jake. Huggins has bulled him, but I am on my way to tell my side of it to Jake," said Ruth. Ruth received the scribes and photographers in a special apartment in the Congress Hotel. His own bedroom was too small to accommodate the throng.

The commissioner, by the way, has no authority in the matter until ten days have expired. The national agreement provides that if a player has been suspended for more than ten days he has the right of appeal to the commissioner who can review the facts and if he believes the athlete has been done an injustice he can order reinstatement.

Ruth is very bitter concerning Huggins and attributes to his "mismanagement" all the woes which have beset the Yanks this year, and the fact that the club is in seventh place in the American League standing.

"Has Huggins lost his grip?" was asked the Bambino.

"He lost it long ago," he replied.

Attention was called to the statement of Ban Johnson, president of the American League, in which he said "Ruth hast he mind of a 15-year-old boy."

"It looks as if Ban is always right," Ruth replied in a tone that indicated a bit of sarcasm. Further than that he did not care to comment.

"Conditions on the New York club," he said, "are bad. That team has no business being seventh in the American League and I believe its standing is due to mismanagement. Of course, Huggins has the owners bulled and they believe everything he says."

Asked whether he had done anything to warrant a suspension and a heavy fine, Ruth replied: "All I did was stay out 'till 2:30 one morning in St. Louis. But I had not been drinking that night and I was in good shape when I came back to the hotel."

Whalen Disloyal Says Mayor Hylan

New York Executive Also Aims Crack at Man Who Entertained Whalen and Another at Governor Smith.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 31.—Grover A. Whalen, formerly Mayor John F. Hylan's private secretary, and later commissioner of plants and structures, who caused the latest sensation in the Democratic mayoralty campaign by deserting the Hylan ranks and coming out for Senator James J. Walker, the Tammany candidate, was characterized by Hylan todal as "disloyal."

"I never have been disloyal to a friend or to the people in my life time," the mayor said. "One more or less deserting makes no difference."

The announcement of Whalen's change of heart was made at a party given by Otto B. Shuloff. Of the latter, Hylan said:

"Otto Shuloff is the man who wanted to show me how to make a million dollars for myself in reorganization of the Staten Island garbage plant. Shuloff is now a member of the Port Authority, appointed by Governor Smith. This is the people's fight against the combination of those who wanted to use the mayor for their own peculiar benefit."

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 31.—The principal speculative and commodities markets were dull and heavy today, with prices inclined to sag. Cotton lost about 30 points, equivalent to $15 a bale, as the result of favorable crop developments and wheat declined from two to three cents a bushel in the principal markets. The movements of prices in the stocks market were by no means uniform, but industrial and specialty stocks lacked the snap and aggressiveness which characterized them in the preceding two weeks.

The motor stocks were the most active, with independent steel stocks taking a more prominent position and a few of the railroad and railroad equipment shares advancing into slightly higher territory.

Stocks were offered for sale in good volume in the forenoon by traders who were anxious to take profits, in view of the sharp rise in prices over the past week or so, the anticipated unsettlement of the coal strike and the general impression in the financial district that the market is in a "distributing period," concealed as well as possible by the occasional spurts in prices of the market leaders

The market was extremely dull in the late trading; the total volume of transactions was only about 600,000 shares in the first three hours, or at the rate of 1,000 shares for the full session. Sales were mostly in small blocks, with the exception of Radio Corporation, in which 19,000 shares were bunched in a single sale. Heavy trading in Packard Motors sent that stock to a new high for the year at 38½. White and Mack sold about two points higher.

Otis Steel and Midland sold lower as stock holders of Trumbull Steel announced their decision to oppose the terms of the proposed consolidation of the three companies. High priced industrial and specialty stocks did their usual stunts, General Railway Signal advancing 16 points and Kresge adding 15 points to last week's 40 point advance.

Unveil Famous Inness Painting

destroy you! He would put out the light, lest a ray of hope, through Christ, might filter in and change the wrath of God to perfect love that casteth out all fear and one might pray to see the Loving God, who gives each day our daily bread and forgives us all, as we forgive.

No! We will not go into the house of Fear. Let us stay out in the light, which gives us faith, that Love for neighbor as ourselves will bring us peace and lead up from temptation, that we may inherit His power and His glory forever!

"You shall be the medium, through whom I will arouse an emotion for good. To paint a picture, and point to it, as the remedy, would be absurd—but can I influence you to paint a picture that while I'm preaching peace on earth, good will to men, will hold the attention of my audience and arouse an emotion that will make them receptive to my words?

In our picture, we will let self and greed and hate prevail until they bring a war that with fire and sword shall destroy this wondrous city.

Its grim and battered, blackened walls shall stand out gaunt against the sky.

No human life remains—the only thing that stirs is the miasmic-mist that rises from the river, that but a short time since was gay with pleasure-boats, filled with laughing, joyous men and women—joyous in the thought that their boat was finer than all others and displayed their wealth and gaudy feathers, and they gloried in the envy that the poorer man, who chanced along the bank, might feel.

Then I'll have you paint, but in so mysterious a way that at first the viewer sees almost a blank, so lacking shall the picture be in startling effects.

Judge Cunningham Speaks.

Judge Cunningham of Ellenville was introduced by Mr. Knapp as the speaker of the evening. Judge Cunningham, a neighbor of Mr. Innes, said that to his mind and thought Mr. Inness had shown the courage of the great masters of old who had dared to present the affirmation of spirituality; the sublimity and permanence of the spiritual side of life. He called to mind a recent expression of the head of the church to which he belonged as to five reasons for the hatred and horror in the world of today. They were, first, the challenge of authority; second, a strong aversion to work; third, the hatred of man for man; fourth, the wild seeking of pleasure as the ultimate end of life; and fifth, the negation of the life of the spirit. The head of the American Bar Association, commenting upon the view of the world condition today, said he heartily agreed with the first four points, but would leave the last one to the judgment of one better versed in theology than himself. Turning toward the luminous picture of the Christ-Child with outstretched arms, Judge Cunningham said to him the artist had portrayed the spirit of Constantine the Great who pointing to the cross of Christ exclaimed, "In this sign shall we conquer!" which is true today as when the words were spoken. Only as men today recognize the world-enfolding sunlight of the heart of Christ can they hope to know the truth of the words, "In hoc signo pax," (In this sign is peace), said Judge Cunningham in closing.

Then as the lights were turned on in the church, the pulsing vibrating golwing light in the picture was in no measure dimmed by the artificial light. The pronouncing of the Benediction expressed in words "The Only Hope."

What Party Consists Of

"I wish to protest," writes a woman, "against a habit of saying in every notice of a party that 'refreshments were served.' Of course they were served. If there had been no refreshments there would have been no party, for that is all the hostess thinks of, and is the first and last thought in the minds of the guests. Some men and women will stay out of bed till midnight, the men because they can't help themselves and the women because they want to see what there will be to eat, and the eating, which doesn't appear before 10:30, consists of a dab of ice cream, a forkful of cake and perhaps coffee to keep the victims awake the rest of the night. Of course refreshments were served! That is all there is to a social affair." —Atchison Globe.

Ruth Says He Is The Goat

Babe Claims Miller Huggins is a Failure and is Putting the Blame For Yanks' Poor Showing on Him—Goes Before Landis Today.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Babe Ruth may be through with organized baseball.

The former "home run king" said so himself when he came to Chicago to personally lay before Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, an appeal to have the fine and suspension imposed on the "king of swat" by Miller Huggins,, manager of the Yankees, lifted.

He is going to tell the judge that Huggins was all wrong in imposing the fine and suspending him.

Babe let it be known that he would never play ball with the New York Yankees again as long as Miller Huggins was manager. He admits though that the New York American League club officials hold in their hands his future as far as playing with any other American or National League club is concerned.

Ruth's alleged infractions of official orders on the playing field from Manager Huggins were set down by Ruth as "a clashing of baseball judgment." Ruth intimated that at times Huggins was "stupid."

B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, had the following to say on the Ruth case:

"Any man who dissipates has no place on a ball club. Manager Huggins is right. Ruth is getting only what is coming to him."

The "Babe" would like to have it known that he never will play with the New York club again as long as Miller Huggins is the manager.

He will not appear with an American or National League club next season unless the management of the New York team says so.

And the "Babe" doubts very much that the New York club will allow him to be bargained for.

"The public has read about me as a rounder, a tramp and a chaser," he said. "I have been charged with drinking, with breaking training rules, with jeopardizing the ball club's chances. I only ask for a fair break from the fans who have aided me in my prominence in the game."

The Babe summed up his denials in the following statements, each emphasized by a thump of his muscular fist on a writing desk:

"I have not been drinking.

"I am in better condition right now than I have been all season.

"I have kept strictly to training rules with slight exceptions. And these infractions were minor. No one with a conscience can hold them against me.

"I have been made the goat of the New York ball club this season.

"Manager Huggins is responsible.

"He is the dumbest manager who ever tried to run a big league ball club."

"Will you sign next year if the New York club attempts to cut your salary to $10,000 a season?", Ruth was asked.

"My contract for the 1926 season calls for the same amount that I am receiving this season," he replied. "However, my contract does not entitle me to this amount. The New York club can break this contract. I have no protection. I belong to New York. If the club holds my baseball future in its hand I am through. If they will not trade me I am helpless. I am merely a 'slave.'

"Since you will not play with the New York Yanks what would you do in case the clubs refused to place you on the market?" he was asked.

"I am not worrying," Ruth said. "I can pick any one of a number of enterprises. The financial angle does not worry me."

Stories to the effect that Ruth was "broke" irritated the husky socker.

"I can take care of myself as far as money is concerned," Ruth stated emphatically.

The "Babe" was to place his case before Judge Landis some time today. He will endeavor to point out to the judge his side of the case. Ruth sees no reason why he should be set down. He will tell the judge that the Yanks flivvered this year because Huggins—not he—garbled the cards. He will say that the New York Club is unfair.

Tagging Major League Bases

Sam Rice tripled the Senators into a lead they never surrendered and was instrumental thereby in giving the White Sox their third straight defeat, this time 9 to 6. The Champion Senators drew ahead of the Athletics in the standing, increasing their lead to three and a half games.

The Giants tightened their hold on a second place, but could not gain on the Pirates in a double bill with the Cardinals. Seeke Barns's pitching and Frisch's batting gave McGraw's men the first game, 3 to 1 but Cothoron gained an 8 to 0 decision in the second game.

The Tigers won their seventh in a row 7 to 4 on the wildness of Walberg and Rommel of the Athletics, keeping their own Mr. Stoner out of trouble by staunch support.

Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers turned back the Reds in a double-header, 4 to 3 and 10 to 8. The first debate lasted ten innings being disrupted by Hargraves's double. The nightcap was a free swinging affair.

The Ruthless Yankees managed another defeat as a conclusion for their western tour, hard hitting being no avail when combined with free booting. The Browns gathered a seven to six victory, Wanninger's three errors helping.

Smith out-duelled Wingfield and the Indians made it two out of three from the Red Sox, 2 to 1.

Phelan Pitches as Locals Win

Colonials Beat West Harrison Club Sunday 4 to 1—Visitors' Pitcher Very Poorly Supported—Double Plays Feature Game.

"Big Ed" Phelan, the Colonials' outfielder, instead of covering the right canvas Sunday afternoon played a new position. The Poughkeepsian adorned the mound for the locals and demonstrated his wares to the West Harrison club as a twirler. Ed granted the visiting club seven safeties, keeping them well scattered for the visiting team sent only one marker across while the locals were registering four. None of the base connections Eddie issued was costly for the visitors' lone marker was started on a Colonial boot.

Ed made the visitors sample some real difficult benders but when the enemy got aboard they seemed to purloin too many bases for Eddie's comfort, or would get too far down toward the scoring positions on innocent grounders. But three times Ed was given aid by double plays when the enemy were all fixed to grab a run.

McClelland, who reigned on the slab for the visitors, gave the locals only six base cracks but the Colonials made use of a few of them in their run making. McClelland had some difficult pitching for the locals but several times his support wavered and then the locals would score.

Five double plays, three for the Colonials, helped to brighten up the match quite a bit. In the fourth frame, with three aboard, McCue received a grounder and tossed home and Jack pegged to McDermott in time to get two of the visitors and to help Ed considerably.

In the opening frame after two outs Ed found himself in a hole, for Leibert was perched on third after having cocked a triple. But Ed showed some genuine pitching and whiffed the next batter, keeping the man on third from scoring.

The Harrison club bottled their only marker in the sixth frame when a Colonial boot let the offender aboard, and then came in on a grounder to Phelan. Several times McClelland's poor backing was the means of the Colonials scoring. In the opening frame Peters received a pass and came across with a run when the visiting shortstop booted one. Again in the fourth McDermott came in when the first sackman offended.

But the last two markers the local stickmen earned. McCue crashed in a single and scored when Davitt sacrificed out to right field. In the seventh frame the locals scored the fourth marker when Kelly received a pass and scored on Phelan's single to center.

West Shore Lost To Albany Nine

The West Shore Railroad team who gripped the local pennant of the Industrial Baseball League went down to a hard defeat at the skilled hands of the Municipal Gas Company, the leaders of the Capital City Commercial Baseball League at Ridgefield Park, Albany, Saturday. The tally was 13 to 2 with the locals at the small end of the stick. This was the first of a series arranged to decide the inter-city championship. With one game in their favor the Albany ball tossers will visit this city Saturday to face the West Shore Railroad nine in the second game of the series.

Fahy twirled for the Capital City team and showed good form throughout the contest. His benders were put over in such excellent form that it was not until the sixth inning that the locals were able to find him for the first safety. Three hits was the total allowed the railroaders in the entire struggle.

Bush held the Albany players hitless and scoreless for the opening two innings, but from the third frame on the Capital City players sent out safe hits freely. The number of safeties gathered in the contest was due mainly to loose playing and poor judgment on the part of the locals.

In the third frame with one out Schermerhorn, the Capital City catcher, placed a three base hit over third base and threatened to score on a hit to short stop by Fahy and was easily thrown out at home.

The fourth inning held two markers for the Municipal Gas Company nine Kirk tripled to deep center with one put away. Fowler punted and beat the play to first with Kirk scoring the first run of the game. Fowler stole second and gained third on a hit to the pitcher by Haight and gained second on an error on the part of the local first baseman Fowler scored on a sacrifice fly hit by Menz. This gave the Capital City team a two run lead over their opponents. Another marked was chalked up for the Albany team in the fifth Schermerhorn gained the first sack on a fumble by the third sacker. Fahy singled to center and Schermerhorn reached second. Kulzer drove one to the third baseman who misplayed it and Schermerhorn scored Richter then faced Bush and hit into a double play, ending the inning.

The Municipal Gas came across with two more runs in the sixth, three in the seventh and five in the eighth. The eighth inning rally was started off by Schermerhorn who singled over third. Fahy singled down first base line Kulzer was handed a pass filling the sacks. Richter hit a short drive to short stop who whipped it to the catcher but Schermerhorn scored together with Fahy. Kirk drove out a double to left field and Kulzer and Richter crossed the rubber. Kirk then scored on a play from second to first which put out Fowler. Dollard was then put in to bat for Haight, but Bush was able to fool him easily with his benders

The last frame was the only one of scoring for the locals. Weber gained first by an error on the first baseman's part He stole second and scored on a fly drive to the right fielder who dropped the ball Brucker landed a safety along the first base line and Coffey scored.

Nearly 2,500 tickets were sold for this contest in the Capital City and about 1,000 fans were present to witness the game.

Loose playing, poor judgment and plenty of errors was the main cause of the locals' defeat. It is expected that a large number of local fans will see the game here next Saturday.

Newark Team Twice Routed By Colonials

Newark Professionals Go Down to Defeat in Double Bill Saturday—Local Players Hit Hard in Both Contests.

The Colonials could find nothing perplexing about the Newark Professionals Saturday afternoon for they easily disposed of the double bill staged with their down river opponents by taking both these dull contests. The opening affair ended by the score of 6 to 2 and the last match terminated 7 to 2.

First Game.

Clyde Russell was chosen to give the Newark aggregation their first setback of the day. Clyde kept his eight hits from occurring too often the same inning. Only two frames did they get more than a single safety and only once did they score on these chances.

The Newark team coined two hits in a row the first frame but after the second safety a man was forced at second which ended anticipations of crossing the pan.

The visitors didn't register a marker until the sixth frame when a costly wild pitch gave them the initial prize. In this frame the first man hit to left field and went to second when his mate followed with a lazy grounder straight at Clyde's feet. The Albanian then shot a bender down which strayed from the plate and went into the dugout and the Newark man lounging on second trotted in with this easy marker.

In the eighth inning the first man again hit to left and was sacrificed down to second base. After the second out Kazic pulled a double to center field and another run registered. Kazic crossed the pan on a boot for the third and final marker.

The locals scored early but it wasn't till the final frames when they seized the contest. Peters received a pass in the opening session and nicked the plate when Jacobs let Matty catch hold of a double.

Jacobs allowed the locals nine base blows which were used freely by the Colonials. Two doubles in a row in the second frame brought the second local run in. A single and a double in the seventh gave the Colonials one more marker. Jacobs fell to pieces the eighth inning, for after allowing a pass followed by two outs, he was assaulted with three safeties in a row and as many runs and the ball game.

Second Game.

Baker was pressed against the visitors in the second match but after four and one-third frames of the Newarkmen he was relieved for fear that these visitors might treat him ungentlemanly. Paul Kinney took up the battle for the balance of the game and by time the seventh frame was reached the visitors were ready to leave town, but were forced to finish the affair in order to amuse and few remaining fans.

The visitors accumulated all their markers in one session. The first down-riverman connected with a single to center. After being sacrificed to second a single flew out to right and one run crossed: After the next man had grounded out a boot hung the second run up.

Baker allowed two hits in a row in the fifth frame and somebody became uneasy so Paul mounted the slab. Kinney whiffed the last two men. Then Paul whiffed four more in the last four frames and gave a lone safety.

Another for Johnnie.

Johnnie Peters made a rip-snorting fine play in the fourth. Kull was on first and Jacobs bounced a hot fly over Peters's head, but Johnnie pulled it down which alone was something to talk about, but that wasn't all, for he flashed it across to Maury before Kull could even get started back to the initial sack, for one speedy set of outs.

The locals scored first in the third frame when Deegan's double brought two locals across. Peters crashed a hard triple in the fifth and came in on Tex's single. Maury McDermott made Hersher, the second twirler of the affair look bad in the third session, with Peters and Kelly on, the lanky Poughkeepsian broke off a four bagger over the left fence and spoiled Newark's second ball game. In the next frame the shortstop's boot was the means of another Colonial marker.

Rice Broke Up The Ball Game

Kingston fans can never forget how way back in the olden days Artie Rice was in the habit of busting up ball games for the local ball clubs. Sunday afternoon Artie just gave the fans a reminder and showed that he still could pull the same old tricks. The Kingston Elks were battling the Troy Elks and the game had gone to the fifth and last inning with the score 5 to 4 in favor of the visitors when Artie showed that he had not unlearned the busting-up trick. With two local Elks impatiently holding down bases Artie crashed out a tough single and scored the two runs and won the match 6 to 5 for the Kingston Elks.

Harry Dickout started on the mound for the Kingston Elks and tossed them over for three frames when Eddie Scherer, the old time port sider twirled for the remainder of the battle. Eddie also had an ancient trick up his arm for twice he fooled the Troy batters with his unexpected delivery which Eddie made famous in the olden days.

Judge Schirick was stationed behind the bat while the balance of the line up consisted of Jimmy Morgan on first, Rice on second, Deegan at short, Desmond on third and Schwab, Hagenlocker and Bennett the outfielders.

Gave Name to Fruit

Shaddock is another name for a grapefruit. The pomelo, shaddock, or grapefruit (Citrus decumana) is a native of southern China. This fruit is more sour than an orange but less sour than a lemon. The name pomelo is from the Dutch name Pompelmoes. Shaddock was the name of a captain who brought the fruit to the West Indies. By some authorities a distinction is made between shaddock and grapefruit, shaddock being the larger, the grapefruit the smaller, having a fine flavor. They are grown plentifully in Jamaica, Cuba, California and most Oriental countries.

Lily Nature's Miracle

June is said to be the month of roses, but to the rambler it is the "month of water lilies," says Nature Magazine. What a miracle nature performs when the black, slimy, filthy bottom of an almost currentless pond is changed by her processes into a spotless, glistening, fragrant flower.

Port Jervis Beat The All-Star

Hank Cragan lost a hard gam Sunday holding the Port Jervis clu to two scatch hits and setting twelv down by the strike-out route. Whil Cragan had them eating out of hi hands his teammates, the Kingsto All Stars, were playing the wors game of their career, having ten errors, which is just one more tha they have made in all their game this season. Cragan pitched hitless ball until the seventh, when they connected for one and another in the eighth. Neither of these counted in scoring.

Bisland, who pitched the first two innings for Port Jervis, gave the locals two hits. In the third he was relieved by Dunham, the latter giving the same number.

The locals threatened to score in the first when Lynch singled. Glaser was hit by a pitched ball. Lynch was caught napping at second. Sickler also hit. Stumph fanned. Smedes hit to second. This was the only inning the locals looked as if they would score.

After two outs in the second, Port Jervis scored on three errors, making one run. In the sixth they got one more the same way.

The eighth the local players went to pieces and let in two on misplays.

The locals had one very bad day, both in the field and at bat.

The All Stars will play the odd game of the series at Port Jervis on September 27. Both clubs have won one game.

Girl Swimmer Will Try Again

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cape Gris Nez, France, Aug. 31.—Miss Gertrude Ederle, American girl swimming marvel, probably will make her second attempt to swim the English Channel Wednesday or Thursday, dependent on the vagaries of the changeable channel weather. She had intended to start Tuesday but announced the postponement early today.

Miss Ederle's plans are being somewhat upset by the efforts of I. Helmy, the Egyptian swimmer, to make a start prior to that of the American girl.

The American girl agreed to give up any plans of starting tonight in deference to Helmy's wishes and Helmy will probably start his attempt at 9 o'clock tonight.

Mindful of the service rendered her by Helmy, who pulled her out of the water when she gave up her first attempt, Miss Ederle today proposed that she accompany Helmy tonight, but Burgess, her trainer, refused permission for her to do so, although he will permit her to go aboard the tug accompanying Helmy.

Weather permitting, Burgess now plans for the American girl to make a start either at 7:30 Wednesday morning or 8:20 Thursday morning.
